TODD HAWKINS & JUSTIN MIKITA

HAWKINS MIKITA
CO-FOUNDERS/PARTNERS

Both Los Angeles natives and UCLA graduates, Todd Hawkins and Justin Mikita bring together more than 15 years combined experience as highly sought-after consultants, event producers and relationship managers.

President of the California African American Museum as appointed by Governor Jerry Brown, Hawkins is the founder of The Todd Group—one of L.A.'s leading event management firms. Mikita, named a 2014 Tastemaker by Out Magazine, served as Development Director of the American Foundation for Equal Rights, which restored marriage equality in California with the U.S. Supreme Court's Perry decision.

“Hawkins Mikita is the key to growing a brand socially and leaving a lasting footprint on society.”

Bridging the gap between government, non-profit, corporate and entertainment industries, Hawkins and Mikita founded Hawkins Mikita, a social impact agency, to develop the intersection of celebrity influencers, philanthropy and social change. Hawkins Mikita is the key to growing a brand socially and leaving a lasting footprint on society.

Hawkins Mikita has supported dynamic influencers such as Cyndi Lauper, Jason Mraz, Jesse Tyler Ferguson, Christina Applegate and various corporate and non-profit clients.
